About Us

Just as it was very simple and clear at Fris Wedding Films how we wanted to offer wedding films and photography to our couples, It soon became clear that many of our couples were also asking us if we could provide their real album. We did not do this for a long time because we simply could not find a quality and up-to-'fris'-level supplier that could give us the quality that we also like to give to our couples.

This changed last year during a visit to a wedding fair in Las Vegas. Rob got in touch with a supplier who runs a small family business and puts their service and quality first; just like we do! It clicked right away and we began work on an initial test album. When this one dropped in our "mailbox," my mouth fell wide open as well: I had never seen such a beautiful album before! Then I knew: We have found a partner and can (finally) start answering our couples' demand. YES!

The Process

A very long story short: Our couples meet with us to communicate their choices (materials, finishes, details, prints, and so on).

Then Rob gets to work on the personalized design of the album.

Once the album is ready for production, Rob has a call directly with the supplier's manager to go over all the specifications.

The supplier then goes to work creating your beautiful album FULLY by hand! No big machines and machines at work where our quality is not guaranteed.

Once the album arrives to us, it is again fully checked and approved for delivery.

Our couple is invited again to view and receive their album in person for the first time.

This album is always delivered in person at Stekene, again to ensure that no damage can occur during (unnecessary) transport to our couple.
